At 2 o'clock the bond bill was formally laid before the senate and Mr. Pritchard (Rep., N. C.) was recognized, but after some discussion the bond bill was informally laid aside and the consideration of the deficiency bill continued.

All the committee amendments were agreed to. An amendment by Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Or.) to pay the claim of John Roach, the shipbuilder, was ruled out on a point of order.

Mr. Warren (Rep., Wy.) offered an amendment appropriating $1,027,000 covering 341 French spoilation claims reported from the court of claims. On a point of order which the chair submitted to the senate it was decided that the claims were proper as an amendment 32

BITTER THINGS SAID.

Stormy Scenes In the Methodist General Conference Yesterday.

CLEVELAND, May 26. - There were stormy scenes in the Methodist general conference yesterday. It was by all odds the most tumultuous session that has yet been held. There was a clash between the ministerial and lay delegates, and for a time in the afternoon Bishop Hurst, who was in the chair, lost all control of the assemblage. A dozen delegates were on their feet at the same time shouting for recognition, calling for rulings of the chair on points of order which had never been heard. and altogether the scenes were more exciting than are usually witnessed in political conventions. The contest came over the fourth section of the new constitution as reported by the committee. When the section was read, an amendment providing for equal representation for the laymen in the general confer-ence was proposed. The discussion was participated in by Rev. Dr. Alex Ashley of Washington, Rev. Dr. J. B. Gray of New Jersey, Mr. Henry French of San Jose, Cal., Rev. L. B. Wilson of Baltimore and Dr. A. Kinett of Philadelphia. Many bitter things were said, and it looked for a time as if there could be no reconciliation between the ministers and laymen. Finally, however, peace was restored by the withdrawal of the amendment, with the understanding that the whole matter should be brought up again in a different form.

Maas Sunday evening, their 2-year-old daughter and the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Maxwell being betrothed in marriage. The ceremony was presided over by the older Maas, who is the only living grandparent of the tots, and the parents of the little ones may be said to have acted the part of sponsors for the principals, each of the four promising fervently to endeavor religiously to remind the children of their own and the parental vows. The ceremony was followed by feasting and mirth, which reminded one of a real wedding or an old fashioned christening. The bride to be was dressed in pure white, with a wreath of natural flowers. Her promised husband wore a sailor suit of navy blue, with a white ruffled shirt bosom. After the vows were pro-nounced by the parent-sponsors the parents and children sipped wine from one glass. bride and groom elect sipping first. Alleged Murderer of Frank Badger Placed in Jail at Albion.

AVILLA, Ind., May 26.-Frank Badger, one of the victims of the assassin's bullet, as detailed in these dispatches yesterday, died from his wounds. His brother has three wounds, but will recover. The excitement was intense and as the sheriff was conveying his prisoner to Albion he was met by 30 persons who were determined to lynch Warner. The prisoner was terribly frightened, but stoutly maintains his innocence. Only the determined atti-tude of Sheriff Simons prevented a lynching. Warner is 35 years of age and it is thought he is insane. While he refuses to discuss the shooting, it is believed to have been the result of a family feud. Warner has said that the Badgers, his brothers-in-law, were endeavoring to alienate his wife's affec-

Democrats believe in partiallty; republicans in fairness Democrats chose five out of eight county candidates for office from Greencastle and the other three from two town-ships. Eleven townships have no representation whatever upon their county ticket. The republicans divided as fairly as possible. Eight townships are represented by eight candidates. The offices are dis-tributed and Greencastle gets but one—all she is entitled to. Voter think of this between now and November!

The old trouble between bicyclers ond teamsters, relative to the rights on the highway, has begun to rise again. But it was not so after the battle. Each party will do well to remember that the other is entitled to half the road. This matter has been tested several times in the courts and always with the same result. The teamster is obliged to keep order. On this subject the to give half the road to the bicycle, and reporter says nothing, being under on the other hand a drove of sweating 'scorchers' have no right to expect a teamster to turn out in the datch to make way for a wild road race. The law says to divide the road and turn to the right. Cyclers should remember also since the wheel is recognized by law as a vehicle they have no more right on the side walk than has a man on horseback or in a carriage.

WASHINGTON, May 25, 1896.

Mr. Cleveland's curt refusal to furnish the senate with copies of the correspondence with Spain concerning the American citizens captured on the fillibuster competitor, asked for by the Morgan resolution, is not well received either in or out of the senate, and unbattle-axes; and then various less it is proven to senators, by allowmedals and badges, a la the Orien- ing them to see the correspondence, that some better reason than a whim of Mr. Cleveland' exists for refusing this information, the senate is likely to take some additional action. A report which cannot be verified says that Secretary Olney refused to allow a member of the Senate committee on Foreign Relations to see this correspondence.

Senator Quay's visit to Gov. McKinley is the subject most talked about just now by the republicans in congress, who have nearly all concluded that unless there is a radical change not now expected in the sentiments of the delegates to the St. Louis convention, Gov. McKinley will be the republican nominee and the next president. While nobody knows exactly why that visit was made, nor what was its result, it has certainly pleased the republicans, those who have from the suported Gov. McKinley as well as those who supported other candidates. It indicates for one thing that the St. Louis convention is not to be followed by the sulking which had much to do with republican defeat in '84 and in '92.

The House cannot be accused of having any surplus love for Mr. Cleveland, but it very promptly sat upon'the notoriety seeking resolution of Representative Howard, the Alabama populist, impreaching the president. Before Howard could make the sensational speech he started, Representative Dingley raised the question of consideration against the resolution; Speaker Reed at once put the question, and by a pratically unanimous yote the House refused to hear Howard.

There is much doubt about that investigation of the bond issues by this administration which the senate directed to be made. According to Senator Harris, who is chairman of the sub-committee which will do the investigating, it may be finished in three days or it may take three months. It will not begin until Secretary Carlisle furnishes the committee all the details of the several bond issues. While indicating his willingness to do this, Mr. Carlisle told the committee that it Gazette from date of subscr would take considerable time to pre- July 1, 1897. pare the statement. Some criticism has been aroused by the report that the investigation would be secret.

Senator Sherman had no difficulty in showing that those democratic senators who expressed their anxiety to join hands with the republicans and pass a non-partisan bill which would give the government the revenues which all the democrats now admit that its needs were merely making a grand stand play for the purpose of trying to escape responsibility for being willing that congress should adjourn without providing ment. All that Mr. Sherman did was to call their attention to the Dingley Illustrations, Market Rep Emergency Revenue bill which was passed by the House early in the session, and which comes as near to being an absolutely non-partisan tariff bill as any measure ever passed by either branch of congress. That brought out the cloven foot of the democratic senators and they at once declared that they would never support that bill. It is the country's misfortune that the republicans cannot poll a majority of votes in the senate, but it will be remedied in the near future.

The bill prohibiting further issue of bonds without specific authority of congress is being debated in the senate. eral test votes which gave the bill the right of way that a majority of the senate favors the bill, but if there was any probability that the bill could pass the House it would not be allowed to come to a vote in the senate, and it is not cer- For that will soon rebuild it.

The postoffice employee gave the book to the party who called and described it and there has since been no complaint from anyone except the person who found it, who, if everybody else is satisfied, should have no complaint to make and should want nothing "straightened."
